THE BOY ORATOR. On next Tuesday evening the "Boy Orator," Garfield Black, who is known all over this country as a prodigy in oratory and electrican, will give one of his enter tainments at the Central Christian church He is but 12 years old, yet moves his audience to laughter and tears at his will, and has such a wonderful memory that he can remember a speech or sermon and speak it almost word for word. It will be a rare treat, and as this is his last town in Kansas no one should miss hearing him.

One of the most enjoyable events of the week was a surprise party upon Miss Mand McCanless at her home on South Market street, Friday evening. Games and music were the principle features of the evening. At the usual hour a delicious supper was served. Among those present were Misses Etta Giunt, Camie Lee, Laura Rutledge, Virgie Little, Kate Hill. May Weaver, Clara McDaniels, Lillie Simpson, Carrie Bliss, Mildred Hayworth, Richel Sharon, Anna McCanless, Close Wardell; Messra. Phillips, Miller, Mercer, Tobias, Snyder, Little, Jones, Bayless, Belveal, Smith, Liggett.

STANDING UP FOR KANSAS. Judge McAtee of Caldwell came very near having a well developed scrap on his hands in the dining room of the Carey hotel yesterday because he was standing up for Kansas. A quartette of New York chaps were in the dining room and were seated at the same table with the judge, when the conversation turned towards Kausas and the bad name she has in the east on account of the representations made there by Jerry Simpson, Senator Peffer and other Populists. Tais made Judge McAtee hot, and he very plainty told them that Kansas is all right and that if scallawags from New York and other places, visiting in Kansas, would not mis-represent the condition of the state on their return that everything would be well. This remark brought all four of the Mayor Carey, who was in the dining room and who promptly jumped to his feet and commanded the peace. Judge McAtee was preparing to defend himself when the mayor interrupted the fracas and had determined to give them a sample of the ighting mettle of a Kansan.

AMUSEMENTS.

Katie Emmett made a bit at the Grand last night in an entirely new Irish play. "Killarney." Not only did Miss Emmett prove herself quite equal to the assump-tion of the role of the Irish colleen, but she tion of the role of the irish colleen, but she was supported by one of the best general companies that has graced the local boards this season. Everything is bran new about "Killarney;" the scenery is magnificent; there is a vim about everydetail, and everything was a nice, clean, easy hit. There was never a sensational climax, and yet the curtain went down at the end of every act disclosing a fit picture for the finale. There were no impossibles; no murders, riots; none of the strains for effect that have erst seemed to be essential to an Irish production. Miss Emmett is not too Irish. She is just enough so to make her winning. "Killarney" is an Irish show, which, except for the repartee, Irish show, which, except for the repartee, is different from the run of Irish shows.
